

DayJet expands operation to Naples airport

DayJet Corporation announced the addition of Naples and Savannah, Georgia to its DayPort service network. DayJet members can now fly "Per-Seat, On-Demand" jet service to and from 45 regional destinations across Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina when they begin or end their travel at Naples Municipal Airport, Savannah/Hilton Head International Airport or other DayPort airports.

The company also announced that it is accepting corporate membership applications for these new DayPort communities. In addition to Naples and Savannah, the DayJet DayPort network includes Boca Raton Airport Gainesville Regional Airport, Lakeland Linder Regional Airport, Pensacola Regional Airport and Tallahassee Regional Airport.

"As important centers of commerce, culture and government, Naples and Savannah are strategic additions to our DayPort service network," said Ed Iacobucci, DayJet president and CEO.

Naples and Savannah business travelers can now book just the seat they need aboard DayJet's fleet of Eclipse 500 very light jets; customize travel according to their time and budget requirements; fly point-to-point between DayJet's growing service network; and return home in a single day. Prices start at a modest premium to full-fare economy coach airfares. ■

South Trail fire department gets new digs

REIS awards scholarships to FGCU students

The REIS Scholarship Foundation, operated by the Real Estate Investment Society awarded the "Frank D'Alessandro Memorial Scholarships" to three outstanding business majors at Florida Gulf Coast University.

Angela Garcia, Emily Ann Brockelsby, and Jessica M. Vogel will each receive $2,500 toward tuition and books.

Garcia is a senior, pursuing a double major in Finance and Business Management. She has acquired a Florida Real Estate License and plans to study real estate valuation and real estate law, with the goal of a career in finance and real estate. Brockelsby is pursuing a Bachelor of Science degree with dual majors in Finance and Computer Information Systems. She plans to graduate in 2009. Vogel is a senior working toward a degree in Finance, with the ambition of eventually acquiring an MBA. She also works for World Savings Bank and looks forward to a career in banking.

The REIS Scholarship Foundation is supported by contributions from the business community and REIS members.

In conjunction with the scholarships, the students receive honorary membership in the REIS, where they may attend meetings on a complimentary basis.

"We welcome these outstanding scholars to join us, to learn about the area's commercial real estate industry, and develop relationships with members of the business community," said REIS President Steve Hartsell.

REIS manages the Scholarship Foundation and underwrites all operating costs, which allows 100 percent of donations to be distributed in scholarships. Information on contributing to the REIS Scholarship Foundation is available at the REIS web site: www.reis-swfl.org or from Scholarship Chairman Tom Woodyard, (239) 425-6011.

Foundation scholarships are available to students at FGCU, Edison College, Hodges University, and Southwest Florida College. Criteria, school contacts, and other information on the program are also available at the REIS web site: www.reis-swfl.org ■
